The story follows the lives of four friends - Angel, Diamond, Sapphire, and Ruby - who grew up together in the tough streets of Brooklyn. They have been through thick and thin together, and their bond is unbreakable. But when one of them is killed, the group is torn apart by grief and anger.

Angel, the leader of the group, is determined to find her friend's killer and make them pay. She sets out on a dangerous journey that will take her into the darkest corners of the city. Along the way, she will be tested like never before, and her loyalty to her friends will be put to the ultimate test.

Diamond, the beauty of the group, is struggling to come to terms with her friend's death. She feels lost and alone, and she turns to drugs and alcohol to numb the pain. But her addiction will only lead her down a path of destruction.

Sapphire, the brains of the group, is trying to hold everything together. She is the one who keeps the group grounded and focused on their goals. But even she is starting to feel the strain of the situation.

Ruby, the wild child of the group, is struggling to find her place in the world. She is impulsive and reckless, and she often makes bad decisions. But she is also fiercely loyal to her friends, and she will do anything to protect them.

As the friends search for justice, they will be forced to confront their own demons. They will have to learn to forgive, to let go, and to move on. But most importantly, they will have to learn to love again.
