Sarah Pick is a remarkable woman who has overcome incredible challenges to achieve great things. Born into poverty in rural Mississippi, she faced discrimination and hardship at every turn. But she never gave up on her dreams. With the help of her mentor, Steve Pemberton, she went on to become a successful businesswoman and philanthropist. Her story is an inspiration to us all.

Early Life and Challenges

Sarah Pick was born in 1945 in a small town in Mississippi. Her family was poor, and she grew up in a segregated community. She faced discrimination from a young age, and she was often treated differently because of her race. But Sarah was determined to succeed. She worked hard in school, and she dreamed of one day becoming a businesswoman.

When Sarah was 16 years old, her father died. Her family was devastated, and they struggled to make ends meet. But Sarah was determined to continue her education. She worked two jobs to pay for college, and she eventually earned a degree in business. After graduating from college, Sarah moved to Chicago in search of a job. She worked in a variety of jobs, but she never gave up on her dream of starting her own business.

Meeting Steve Pemberton

In 1980, Sarah met Steve Pemberton, a successful businessman. Steve was impressed by Sarah's determination, and he offered to help her start her own business. With Steve's help, Sarah launched her own cleaning company. The business was a success, and Sarah quickly became a successful businesswoman.

Sarah and Steve remained close friends and business partners for many years. Steve was a mentor to Sarah, and he helped her to develop her business skills. He also encouraged her to give back to her community. Sarah became a philanthropist, and she donated money to a variety of causes.

Legacy

Sarah Pick died in 2015 at the age of 70. She left behind a legacy of success and philanthropy. She was a pioneer for women and minorities in business, and she inspired many people to follow their dreams. Sarah's story is a reminder that anything is possible if you never give up.

Sister Sarah Pick Win With Steve is an inspiring story of resilience and triumph. Sarah Pick overcame incredible challenges to achieve great things. She was a successful businesswoman, philanthropist, and mentor.

Her story is an inspiration to us all. We can all learn from her example of perseverance, determination, and compassion.
