Understanding the Examination

The FRCS ORL HNS examination is a two-part examination that assesses your knowledge and skills in otolaryngology, head and neck surgery. The first part of the examination is a written examination, which consists of multiple-choice questions and short answer questions. The second part of the examination is an oral examination, which consists of a series of clinical cases.

In order to pass the FRCS ORL HNS examination, you will need to demonstrate a deep understanding of the following topics:

* Anatomy of the head and neck * Physiology of the head and neck * Pathophysiology of head and neck disorders * Diagnosis and management of head and neck disorders * Surgical techniques for head and neck disorders

Preparing for the Examination

There are a number of things you can do to prepare for the FRCS ORL HNS examination. These include:

* Studying the syllabus for the examination * Attending a revision course * Reading textbooks and journals * Practicing multiple-choice questions and short answer questions * Preparing for the oral examination by practicing clinical cases

The Day of the Examination

On the day of the examination, it is important to arrive early and be well-rested. You should also bring all of the necessary materials, such as your ID, pens, and pencils.

The written examination will last for three hours. The oral examination will last for approximately 30 minutes.

After the Examination

Once you have completed the examination, you will need to wait for the results. The results are typically released within a few weeks.
